

Life at Harvest

Living at Harvest is living in a place that's engaging by nature. It's a new kind of community that's all about the landscape, where you can grow your own vegetables, nurture your well-being and share the bounty with family and friends. Pick, taste and savor edible plantings and fresh produce or come together with neighbors to relax, exercise and enrich daily life at the clubhouse. At Harvest, fresh experiences are a part of every day.

What is the Harvest program?

The Harvest program is a unique opportunity for community residents to roll up their sleeves, get their hands dirty and harvest the fruits of their labor. Under the guidance of a community farmer, members will learn the ropes of edible gardening and farming, working side by side with neighbors in gardens and orchards throughout Harvest. It's our way of cultivating food, community and knowledge.

What will you learn?

The more you participate, the more you'll learn! And the Harvest program brings a range of activities that will enlighten and grow your connection to nature:

- Building soil fertility
- Planting seeds and propagation
- Water-wise irrigation
- Crop care and harvesting
- Composting
- Pest management
- Fruit tree maintenance

How can you participate?

All residents are encouraged to participate in the Harvest program. You can drop by the garden during your community farmer's shift and learn by working alongside them. You also have the opportunity to enjoy fresh, seasonal produce harvested from the gardens and orchard surrounding the amenity center. Finally, gardening and culinary workshops will be held throughout the year.

To learn more about this program, please call (800) 428-5588.

What are the benefits?

A little effort goes a long way when you're part of the Harvest program! Here are a few perks that come with being a member:

- Access to community potlucks, including special presentations and cooking demonstrations
- Opportunities to harvest your share of the bounty each time you work
- An on-site community farmer to teach you the basics of growing and garden operations
- Discounts on community-wide culinary and agricultural workshops
